

ASLME Partners with The Food and Drug Law Institute on Controlled Substances Conference – Save $100

The American Society of Law, Medicine & Ethics is a proud partner of The Food and Drug Law Institute's (FDLI) Controlled Substance Regulation: Understanding FDA and DEA Missions, Rules & Policies Conference taking place in Washington, DC on February 13th.

Controlled substance abuse is a major public health and law enforcement problem domestically and internationally. The two agencies charged with regulating these drugs —the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) -- have different missions and overlapping jurisdiction, creating significant challenges for the pharmaceutical industry. Understanding DEA's scheduling process and FDA's Risk Mitigation and Evaluation Strategies (REMS) is essential to working with both agencies. Drug shortages, increased enforcement efforts and innovative drug development issues further complicate the relationship among FDA, DEA and the controlled substance community.

Join FDLI and ASLME to participate in panel discussions and presentations about how FDA and DEA seek to balance serving patient needs while reducing the risk of diversion and abuse of pharmaceuticals. Register online and choose "ASLME Members Only" to save $100 off the non-member registration price.
